KEMAL ISSUES AN ULTIMATUM TO THE ALLIES

CAFETERIA TO OPEN
MONDAY AT SCHOOL
TO SERVE LUNCHES TO LOCAL CHILDREN

Central Association Will Continue Splendid Work Of Last Year

VISUAL EDUCATION IS AN IMPORTANT FACTOR
Lectures Will Be Given By The Various Students This Year

The Parent-Teacher's Association, as its name implies is a heaven-born organization. And as its name further indicates it serves the children in the home and in the school. It is an active organization in which the parents and school teachers are banded together for the upbuilding of the community through meeting the needs of all, but especially those of the school children and the high school girls and boys. Just at this time the Parent-Teacher Association of Central Albany is planning to open a Cafeteria on Monday at the Gordon school according to Mrs. W. R. Shelton one of its promoters, where lunches will be served free to such school children as may stand in need of it—and other lunches will be served to teachers and students at a nominal sum—sufficient to meet running expenses.

Another special feature of the Central Albany Association is its work in "Visual Education," further mention of which will appear. Mrs. Lovic P. Troup is president of the Central Association, and in speaking of some of the plans of the organization said: "Two years ago the cafeteria was an experiment, begun on a very small scale—but with such surprising success, that the Parent-Teacher's Association become a permanent effort. Members of the P. T. A.—as the organization is known, who were deeply interested, volunteered their services, and labored untiringly till at the close of the year, the women felt sure that a definite work could be done on a business plan. Last year, there was a woman in charge all the year, always with one and sometimes with two assistants. These were paid for their services. Hundreds were served wholesome food every day for a nominal sum, the teachers were served dainty, appetizing plate lunches for ten cents each. All expenses were paid and salaries of helpers paid. Free lunches were served to deserving children." (And this will be done again this year according to Mrs. Troup, Mrs. Shelton and others active in the Association) "All new equipment" continued Mrs. Troup, "is practically paid for and we have over $250.00 in the Treasury."

Visual Education Made Special Order
In speaking of the system of visual education sponsored by the Association Mrs. Troup said: "Our slides cover all subjects used in the grammar school grades through the 7th grade, and include also many subjects of interest and help to High School students."

"In addition to our 500 slides the schools have open to their use, free of charge 20,000 other slides including travel, Bible subjects, history, etc. each series consisting of from 20 to 75 slides. To these 20,000 new series additions are to be made from time to time."

"All this is of inestimable value"

Mustapha Moves On Constantinople

This is the very latest photograph of Mustapha Kemal Bey, leader of the Turkish troops, who, having routed the Greeks and burned Smyrna, is reported to be moving his immense army against the Allied forces holding Constantinople.

POSSES SEARCHING FOR NEGRO; TRIED TO ATTACK A GIRL

(By International News Service.)
BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 22.—County officers and volunteer posses still are searching this morning for the unidentified negro who yesterday afternoon accosted and seized Miss Edna Turner, near Artesian Springs, demanding a kiss. The young woman screamed and frightened the negro away, but she was able to give a good description of her would-be assailant to officers.

State's Suit vs.
Water Co. Set

A special term of the circuit court is called for Monday, Sept. 25, at which time the cause of state vs the Alabama Water Co., will be heard. The case in question originated at this point and grew out of charges by the local health unit of the state in regard to the water being furnished the Twin Cities, it is alleged.

Ten Prisoners In County Jail Now

At present only 10 prisoners are confined in the county jail. This is the smallest number at any time during the current year. Thirty days ago there were 39.

With the exception of prohibition cases the sheriff's force is enjoying a decided lull in business.

Farmer Tried On Kidnapping Charge

(By International News Service.)
GOLDSBORO, N. C., Sept. 22.—C. E. Aycock, a wealthy farmer who lives near here, is on trial today on a charge of attempted kidnapping because his ardent 16 year old Estelle Sorrell led him to extremes. Estelle's parents forbade the rich man's attentions, they said, because he was too old and used cider for a beverage.

THOUSANDS BACK ON JOBS TODAY IN FORD MOTOR PLANT

(By International News Service.)
DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 22.—Thousands of men went back to work in the plants of the Ford Motor Company today in response to Edsel Ford's notification from Ohio that the shutdown, forced by a coal shortage, was at an end.

Factory officials estimated all the plants would reach their regular production rate by night. Ford's order sent more than 70,000 men back to work here, besides returning to their occupations thousands in plants supplying Ford parts.

It was stated today that the Ford Company has secured the proper varieties of coal at acceptable prices and in quantities sufficient to insure steady production.

SHOPMEN FIGHT
NON-UNION MEN

(By International News Service.)
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 22.—Twenty two men today are suffering from injuries received in an all day brawl at the Coster shops of the Southern Railway here yesterday between returning union shopmen and those men who remained at their posts during the strike.

At least ten of them are seriously hurt.

The trouble began early in the morning and came to a climax at the close of work for the day shift.

When it became evident that trouble could not be averted, armed guards were sent to the shops. The shopmen immediately refused to work and the guards were removed.

Early in the morning it appeared there would be a clash. Some of the non-union men left incognito and others were driven from the works. The Southern is conducting a thorough investigation into the affray.

Seventeen hundred men returned to their jobs at the Southern yesterday.

Examination

WHO TOLD SEXTON OF ALLEGED LOVE AFFAIR?

Authorities, Despite Minute Investigation, Still Have Made
No Arrests

(By International News Service.)
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 22.—James Mills, husband of the choir leader who was found dead here beside the body of Rev. Edward W. Hall, was taken to the Somerset County courthouse today, where he was questioned at great length by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Toolen.

The county authorities are particularly anxious to learn the name of the woman member of the congregation of the charge who warred Mills some time ago that the attachment between the minister and the beautiful blond choir leader, Mrs. Mills, had grown past the stage of friendship.

Although the double murder was learned last Saturday morning, when the two bodies, both shot through the head, were found lying side by side in the dew soaked grass, under an apple tree on the old Phillips farm, there have been no arrests.

The authorities were on the point of making one or more arrests but at the last minute feared they did not have sufficient evidence to hold the accused. All theories are being run down from murder for jealousy, murder for revenge, murder through blackmail, murder for family honor and murder for money.

Stinson Shoots In National Meets

O. W. Stinson, popular local trap shooter, has been participating in some big national shoots recently. Leaving here on Sept. 2, he went to the grand American shoot at Atlantic City where 650 participated. Later he went to Providence, R. I. where 200 shots from all over the nation were entered.

DID YOU KNOW

The state of Virginia always celebrated for growing tobacco and presidents, furnished James Monroe, the fifth president, the author of the Monroe Doctrine, who was born April 28th, 1758. He graduated from William and Mary College at the age of 18. Ten years later he married Eliza Kortwright. The wife and two daughters shared the glories he won in statesmanship. He was inaugurated at the age of 58 years, and made such a good chief executive that he served eight years. He died on July 4, 1831, being the third president to die on the Fourth of July. He was 73 at the time of his death and was buried in Hollywood Cemetery, Richmond, Va. His term of service to his country was from 1817 to 1825.

People Look On

(By International News Service.)
BLANDONVILLE, Ill., Sept. 22.—While a number of residents of this little town looked on, too terror stricken to offer resistance, a band of four thugs in an automobile swooped down on the First National bank today, dynamited the vault and escaped with between $5,000 and $10,000.

MAIL BOXES MUST BE PUT IN PLACE
POSTMASTER SAYS

Mail boxes must be put in place by December 21, according to the following notice given to the public today by L. E. Huie, Albany postmaster:

To The Patrons of the Albany Post-office—

On account of the delays caused to carriers at dwelling houses where no door slot or mail receptacle is provided, it seems timely within a reasonable period, to require all who are to receive mail by street carriers at their dwellings to provide such accommodations, door slots are preferable. On Dec. 21, 1922 you will not be granted this service if you fail to provide the requested receptacles. It is not intended that any one be deprived of this service but it is hoped that all will immediately make the proper arrangements. Sincerely yours—signed: L. E. Huie, postmaster.

The rail strikers regular meeting was addressed this morning by J. L. Busby, president of the Birmingham Trades Council, who is making a speaking trip over the entire system. Mr. Busby proved to be an eloquent and impressive speaker. He made the usual arguments in support of the present strike.

The speaker was introduced by S. E. Roper who said Mr. Busby was the unanimous choice of the striking shopmen of the Birmingham district to speak for them at Nashville, Louisville and other points.

S. E. Roper followed Mr. Busby and explained the present strike situation. S. O. Winton, president of the Central Labor Union, announced that body will hold a special meeting at Carmen's Hall this evening.

The meeting was called to order by C. E. Cherry, who repeated his previous statements that the general public would be admitted to the meeting Friday and to the future meetings. The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Augustus Blankenship and was closed with prayer by S. E. Roper.

The usual committee reports were made, the most extensive report being made by T. F. Lewis, chairman of the relief committee.

Insurrection of Turks Is Being Planned Behind British Lines

(By International News Service.)
PARIS, Sept. 22.—The admiralty has ordered the French fleet to be kept constantly under steam and prepared to leave on the instant for the Turkish straits. L'Intransigent revealed today, Marshal Foch is conducting preparatory conversations with all the chiefs of staff.

(By International News Service.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22.—Unless there is an immediate peace conference at which Constantinople and Eastern Thrace are granted to Turkey, the Turkish army will open an attack in an effort to force its way into Europe, Mustafa Kemal Pasha head of the Ankara government, has informed General Pelle, the French high commissioner, it was learned today.

A press dispatch said that Kemal was massing heavy guns and that movements of infantry are underway. General Pelle, French high commissioner at Constantinople, was said to fear that Kemal was determined to get the city, even at the cost of destroying it by shell fire.

Meanwhile an insurrection of Turks is being planned in Thrace to menace the British troops from the rear.

The British are reinforcing both land and naval forces at Chanak, the chief strategic point on the Dardanelles. It is at this point that the waterway, separating Europe from Asia is narrowing and it is believed that Kemal would select this place to cross in the event of an invasion of Europe.

MARKING TIME

(By International News Service.)
LONDON, Sept. 22.—While the government marked time in the Near East situation today and delegates of England, France, Italy and Yugoslavia again met in Paris for further discussion of peace conference plans, reports came out of Constantinople that Turkish cavalry was being concentrated along the Southern fringe of the neutral zone, flanking the Turkish straits.

KEMAL RAISES ARMY.

(By International News Service.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22.—Kemal, commander in chief of the Turkish army, was reported today to be attempting to raise his troops to a quarter million. Inducements are being made to Turks of military age in the liberated area of Anatolia to join the colors. Kemal is concentrating large quantities of Krupp and Skoda guns which had been furnished Turkey in the world war by Austria and Germany.

Kemal is quoted as saying: "I am unable to restrain my men. I can hold back only a few days, longer unless there is an immediate conference at Mudia, which will concede Constantinople and Eastern Thrace to Turkey. We are willing to enter Constantinople with only a limited number"

It is reported the Turkish Nationalists are on the point of issuing an ultimatum to the allies, demanding the evacuation of Thrace within 48 hours.

WOMANLY TROUBLES

Twice Hard for Her to Stop Work,
But This Texas Lady Says She Had to Go to Bed.—
Helped by Cardui.

Salado, Texas.—"I suffered a great deal with womanly troubles," says Miss Lillian Hart, of Route 1, this place. "I would, for a day or two, feel drowsy, stupid and lifeless; didn't feel like doing my work."

"I would suffer pains in my sides and back, and very severe headaches."

"I am the housekeeper, and it was very hard for me to stop, but I would get in such a misery I would have to go to bed. I heard of Cardui, and that it was good for this suffering. The very first bottle I took seemed to help me. I did not suffer near so much, so I sent for the second. It did so much good for me, I can't say enough for Cardui, for it certainly was a friend in need."

Women who feel the need of something to help relieve, or prevent, such troubles, should profit by the experience of thousands of other women, and try this mild, harmless tonic.

INTERESTING HISTORICAL

FACTS ARE DEPICTED

"Buffalo Bill" at the Star today.

Do you know what those wonderful qualities were of Abraham Lincoln's that endeared him to millions of people?

Do you know the circumstances under which President Lincoln was assassinated?

Do you know whether or not John Wilkes Booth met the fate deserved by an assassin?

Would you like to have seen the presidential inauguration of Andrew Johnson?

These historical events are only a few of those recorded by the camera for the big Universal chapter play "In the Days of Buffalo Bill" which comes to the Star Theater on Tuesday.

The superintendent of schools of San Diego, Cal., Henry C. Johnson, highly endorsed this serial as the best educational picture ever produced. Educators all over the country have expressed their opinion to the effect that if motion picture concerns would concentrate on serials like "In the Days of Buffalo Bill," the screen would be the greatest educational medium in the world.

Edward Laemmle directed the serial while Robert Dillon wrote the story and continuity from American history.

Art Acord is the star of the chaptered drama and is ably supported by Dorothy Wood, George Williams, Joel Day, Joseph Hazleton, Duke Lee, Burt Frank, Pat Harmon, Burton C. Law, Otto Nelson, Jim Corey, Chief Lighthouse, William Moran and others.

The story is told in eighteen chapters.

It is the type of picture that will appeal to every member of the family. Mother will enjoy the love theme, father will glory in living over again the stirring days he used to read about in the "yellow-backs" and children will find thrill after thrill to entertain them, without receiving a liberal education in the history of their country during the hectic days that marked the era of Buffalo Bill.

EUGENE O'BRIEN'S ELABORATE ORIENTAL PROPHET PARADISE

"The Prophet's Paradise" is the alluring title of the picture starring Eugene O'Brien, coming to the Princess Theatre Saturday.

This is another in the series of Selznick pictures built for this clever young player, and it bears out the announcement that each of the individual pictures in the series will be different from all the others. This time it is to the orient that the producer has gone for atmosphere, and the result is one of the most picturesque and colorful offerings of this season's screen output.

The story tells of the adventures of Howard Anderson, a young American, who is on a sight-seeing trip in Constantinople. For the purpose of swindling the youth, Hassard el Miroun and his tool, Kadir, arrange a fake slave auction, and lure the daughter of an American professor to the place. Threatening to kill the girl if she tries to get help, the conspirators place her on the auction block, knowing that Anderson will pay well to save a compatriot from the fate of the harem. Their plans work out perfectly to a certain extent, but Anderson declines to submit tamely to the execution and fights the guards. In the battle both Anderson and the girl escape, but they are separated, and he does not know her name. How they discover each other again is a fascinating final chapter to a thrilling story.

In addition to Mr. O'Brien the cast includes Sigrid Holmgren and others.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

PORT DEVELOPMENT NEEDED FOR VERY PRACTICAL REASONS.

The casual observer generally thinks of an open port such as we propose to make at Mobile, as a very convenient thing, and a very desirable thing, without much thought as to the absolute necessity of such out lets to the markets of the world. There are many new industries due to start up, not around Mobile alone, when we have a real ocean port there, but in all parts of Alabama and throughout the South. And coast wise foreign markets are necessary to the continued operation of our present industries. Many of the crops raised in Alabama, must be consumed in foreign lands if they are to be raised at a profit. This is especially true of our cotton and corn crops; the former staple being very largely in excess of our ability to manufacture it. Alabama is said by the "Alabama Sea Port Committee", to be "the largest producer of peanuts and sweet potatoes" and the most of these products find foreign consumers.

There is a surplus of hay and other such crops raised in Alabama. In speaking of the value an adequate port at Mobile will be to the entire state, official literature of the Port Committee states:

The freight rate to Mobile is lower than to any other port, and with the improvement of the port, more ships will come there for freight, and producers of the state will thereby be given more opportunities to reach the markets of the world in less time and at less cost of transportation than if compelled to ship through other ports.

It is of vital interest to every line of endeavor in the State, agricultural, industrial or commercial, that the State's only seaport be brought up to a high state of efficiency for handling merchandise of every kind.

West coast and foreign demand kept many of the Alabama industries going throughout the year 1921 and the early part of 1922 when similar industries in other parts of the country were either closed down or running from one to three days a week.

These active Alabama industries, located in all sections of the State, include coal, coke, chemicals, vegetable oils and manufactures of cotton, iron, steel, timber and other field and mill products.

Over fifty thousand tons of these commodities were carried by steamer from Mobile to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and other Pacific coast ports during the first five months of 1922. As much more passed through the Port of Mobile to foreign countries.

WHEREIN MR. LEWIS MAY HAVE OVERDONE IT.

We haven't seen Mr. Sinclair Lewis' latest novel which is said to represent an attempt by the author to duplicate and excel his former feat in publishing "Main Street"—that is to say, he hopes to discredit a larger number of his fellow Americans in the second book than in the first. We gather this impression from an editorial in the Brooklyn Eagle, which says:

Unfortunately, Mr. Lewis seems to have misinterpreted his own success or wrongfully appraised the qualities of his own work. "Babbitt," his latest novel, will undoubtedly attract much attention, but it is not another "Main Street," for the reason that Mr. Lewis tried to make it just that. Instead, it is a wholesale indictment of America which leaves the alleged slanders of Rudyard Kipling far behind. Kipling was quoted as saying that America had lost her soul. If we are to take "Babbitt" at its face value, Mr. Lewis denies that America ever had a soul.

But he goes farther: he denies his characters anything but the most limited, mechanical intelligence. Even Kipling, we imagine, would grant America a certain intelligence, for Kipling has long been a best seller here, as Mr. Lewis has become. If Mr. Lewis intends us to accept Babbitt and the other characters in the book as representative Americans, we must dissent. And as proof we submit that in all of Zenith, as he depicts, the typical prosperous American city, he could not have found a hundred readers for "Main Street." There is no such city as Mr. Lewis' publishers will inform him. We are afraid Mr. Lewis has made the common mistake of taking a type of an individual as a model for a composite. There are George Babbitts all around us, but there are no clubs and no centers where a large number of people do not spend their time laughing at the Babbitts or dodging them as bores. And even the typical American city of bustle and pretense has a few honest stones in its edifices, and a few honest folks in its homes. Here and there one finds people who use their brains and apply them in business and in life. It is strange that this should escape Mr. Lewis, whose powers of observation are in many respects so remarkable.

We have seen something of almost every type of American community, and read authoritative literature on all of them. We know, you know and everybody else, except Mr. Lewis knows, that any report on the average American community which overlooks the existence in them of people of lofty character and ideals, of high intelligence and active cultural aspirations, of pure-grain patriotism and devotion to duty, is a slander as silly as it is unjust. We do not know what Mr. Lewis has put into his new book. From the character of his "Main Street" and the remarks of the Eagle, we are not made hopeful for the best in accuracy of portrayal and criticism. But if he has overlooked the people worth while and implied that they do not exist, his new book isn't worth the price, whatever it is.

There is a new school of American writers engaged in producing their own literature of pessimism. Insofar as their critical analysis may serve to goad us into better conduct and shame us into higher ambition and better ideals, they should be welcome. But we who are preached to have a right to expect our interpreters to be fair and see the whole picture. The philosopher can not afford to employ the methods and phrases of the case lawyer who is striving only to make points in favor of his client. The philosopher is not supposed to have any client to whose interest it would be for him to make out a case of total ignorance and depravity against the whole public.—Montgomery Advertiser.

TRAGIC FATE OF ARGONAUT MINERS FINALLY IS LEARNED

Out in a small California mining town today friends and relatives mourn the tragic deaths of 47 men who lost their lives deep in the bowels of the earth, where they had gone to toil for a livelihood.

The discovery of the bodies of the 47 miners in the deep shaft of the Argonaut gold mine yesterday ended a period of tragic suspense such as seldom is found in human experience. For more than three weeks heroic efforts had been made by rescue workers to reach the miners who had been entombed in the mine shaft by an explosion.

Fire and deadly gasses, caving in of walls and necessity for blasting through solid rock in order to reach the level on which the men had worked, made the rescue efforts difficult and the progress of the rescue crews slow.

All along, despite the length of time and the knowledge that the men had carried food with them sufficient only for one day, loved ones watched at the mouth of the mine for some hopeful signs. And hopeful signs were not lacking. For a time fire raged in the mine and this was counted a bad omen, but the relatives of the buried miners were told that the men were at work far below the point where the fire raged, and that they still could be living. Then expert tests were made of the air at the level where the men were supposed to be, and it was found to be free of deadly lethal.

It was hoping against hope for the loved ones of the entombed men. There really was but the slightest possibility that any of the men could be found alive after 22 days in a living tomb, with no food, no water and but little air. Yet hope continued, up to the very end of the effort at rescue, and plans had been made for immediate first aid to be given to the men, if they should be found alive.

In that "golden tomb" the 47 miners had made a desperate, a valiant, but futile effort to avert the final catastrophe. The rescue squads found two bulkheads that the entombed men constructed to keep back the fire and the deadly gases. They had been forced to fall back from the first and had built the second bulkhead, and they had started a third when death put a stop to the work.

There is heroism of which the world hears little. Often it is heroism so far from human activities that it never is known. Doubtless among the group of doomed men in the Argonaut shaft there were heroes. Doubtless some gave their lives in the hope that by so doing they might save the lives of their comrades. One certainly has been a leader in the work of fighting off death, and he had left two hastily scrawled notes telling of the losing fight.

Perhaps in that mine shaft lined with gold that tempted men to risk their lives, there was in the final hour or the final moment a revelation of divine mercy such as we in safe places may not have. Certainly death was sent to the doomed group painlessly, for it was found that all had died from inhaling the gas that miners dread.

The Argonaut mine tragedy may have in it a valuable lesson to mine owners and to mine workers. It is not safe to work at a depth of a mile underground, and all the gold that could be found there would not recompense for the loss of a number of human lives. The lesson of this disaster may lead to greater safety measures being taken in the future by mine owners and greater caution by mine workers. But the lesson has been a costly one.—Anniston Star.

AMERICAN RAINMAKER GETS CREDIT FOR ITALIAN DOWNPOUR.

Rainmaker Hatfield is the talk of Italy. They had a five-months' drought over there. Italian government sent an S. O. S. for Hatfield, reputed to have made the heavens open up and pour down heavy rains in various parts of our country and Canada.

Hatfield set up his rigging near Naples. Presumably. Comes a young cloudburst.

It used to be—maybe, still is—a military saying that the thunder of cannon precipitates heavy rains.

Albert Stiger, the Austrian, probably had this in mind back in 1896 when he invented the small cannon that is used to stave off and break up hailstorms.

Prof. D. W. Herring, writing in the Scientific Monthly, says he has investigated all kinds of "artificial weather control" and he is convinced Stiger's method really works. The cannon theoretically breaks up the clouds.

Rainmaker Hatfield's method is kept secret. He was offered and won $4,000 an inch for making it rain at Medicine Hat, Alberta, Canada.

Scientists of the Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh are experimenting to prevent fogs. Laboratory results are encouraging, so the method will be tried out on rivers.

The method? It's simple. Spray the river's surface with a chemical that will prevent mists from rising and condensing into fogs.

Dr. Herring in his scientific article says that weather control is not regarded as unscientific and that meteorologists are not hopeless of accomplishing it.—Anniston Star.

Why Nice Surroundings Mean Much to Your Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

PLEASANT surroundings have much to do with your mental condition and, therefore, have an important bearing on your health. Sunshine, fresh air and the right temperature are unmistakable in their effects upon health. You cannot live in the ceaseless din of clanging machinery or the chatter of discordant voices without being unpleasantly affected.

Bad odors are distracting and harmful. A disagreeable taste in the mouth will keep your attention from your work. A tight shoe will spoil your whole evening.

All your special sense organs have something to do with your happiness or your misery. If what you hear, smell, taste and feel affect you, it is just as reasonable to believe that what you see helps you or harms you.

Beautiful sights, pictures, flowers, cheerful walls, the appearance of a cozy fire, a well-arranged bookcase, a tastefully set table, artistic furniture, an orderly desk—all these affect you pleasantly. As they give you agreeable thoughts and a feeling of pleasure, you are benefited.

Some years ago I read of a Wall Street broker who always had a single rose in a slender vase on his desk. This little touch of Nature put him in harmony with the spheres, keeps him sweet and adds to his personal charm. In the presence of a beautiful flower which he really loves he cannot be coarse, ugly nor fretful.

We have this idea in the back of our minds, I suppose, when we send flowers to the sick friend. This reminder of the simplicity and joy of the gardens where flowers bloom, stimulates the heart, adds to the depth of the breathing and promotes well-being.

Orderly, clean and well-arranged houses add to the joy of living. What we refer to as "the need of a woman's hand" means that the home must show that delicate and beautiful touch which tends to be possessed by women alone.

You cannot be cheerful, wholesome and long-lived unless you live in pleasant ways. Cultivate a love of beauty and you have much to hold your mind. Cleanliness and neatness of person and of surroundings will add years to any life.

If you have no bump of order and beauty, cultivate it at once. Don't live "in a mess." Give yourself all the benefits of good surroundings.

Let all your ways be ways of pleasantness, and shed all paths of health will be of your own choosing.

Generally speaking, the most of us are in a passive attitude most of the time. Not very many of us are what is termed, "active." We are inclined to wait until things turn up before we ever make a great effort to turn things up. Therein lies much of our handicaps. If there was the aggressive spirit extant all the time much more would be accomplished. Many of our ills which we attribute to other sources, is the product of our own handiwork. We rive and fashion the fabric of our surroundings much more than we are willing to admit on first admission. We generally wait until the thing we are after gets to far the start of us before we begin to sprinting, and we are not then able to overtake and overcome the handicap. In other words, procrastination is the bane of our lives, at least a great many of us. This one thing we allow to come in and take the place of action, and we suffer for such misdeeds in each and every instance. Procrastination is the vehicle which carries our opportunities away at a swift pace, and is always on schedule time.

"As the twig is bent so is the tree inclined" was never more pronounced and pertinent to the outcome of the race than at present. With a world torn by dissensions at every point and angle, the proper training of the young of today comes with an appeal which is heard round the world. To their proper training and developing depends the safety and security of this Republic. How they are trained and where they are trained are very pertinent suggestions indeed, and every parent should be interested in its to that extent that they will give it their best attention.

We are just now experiencing delightful weather in the Tennessee Valley. The nights are cool and the days are not hot enough to make it unpleasant. We are rapidly approaching the Autumnal Equinox, when we are then done with hot weather. As a whole, the climate in this valley is yearly pronounced delightful. The lateness of the Fall weather makes it possible to plant and raise two crops of garden vegetables. Many of the gardens of the county are now furnishing a tempting array of vegetables which usually come with the first Spring weather. A glance at any of the grocery stores in the Twin Cities will disclose that vegetables of all kinds are still plentiful, and there can be seen daily many vehicles coming into the Twin Cities loaded with many varieties of garden stuff fresh from the country. A great country we have, and its greatness is hardly appreciated by us as it should be.

The Republican tariff bill recently enacted became a law at mid-night Wednesday. Some of the Republicans pronounced its terms "indefensible," but they voted for it just the same. They will have a hard time explaining to the people that it is a just measure, and it will take something out of the ordinary class of spell binding to convince a thinking people. Wearing apparel and food stuffs come in for big revenues when the cudgel of the new tariff law is put in motion.

WINFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT A Happy Contrast

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THERE NOW—it isn't all jazz and affinities and soul mates and love pirates—not quite!

Here is a letter that says so:

DEAR WINFRED BLACK:
I want to tell you about a man I know. He is 35 years old and he was married when he was 20. All his life his wife and three children were his one thought. His wife died about three years ago and though any one of his children would be glad to have him live with them, he won't go because they live too far away from her grave, and every week he goes and puts flowers on her grave. And he is happy and cheerful and content knowing that he will die in the home where they spent so many years of joy and sorrow together.

I knew the little woman, too, and many a time she told me that he was her first sweetheart and that she had never been sorry for one minute that she had married him.

Don't you think that the world would be just a little better if the papers and books told more about good people, love stories like this, and not so much about Cleopatras and Sapphos and some of our modern vamps?

And have you ever noticed that it is the thing that is held before us that we want to copy? If there were more people proud of being good and having just one love and marriage the rest would be just a little ashamed of so much free love and so many divorces.

A MODERN WOMAN.

For Each Other

Isn't it a relief to hear about a man like that?

Doesn't it make you feel that life is worth living to know that such fidelity and such deep love and such tender memory can exist in this careless, easy-going, shallow-hearted world of ours?

What a dear old man he must be, this one who remembers!

And how happy he is, too, living in his dream and his memories. He never had any other sweetheart, and neither did she—lucky mortals!

There must have been something very dear about both of them to be so chosen out of all the world for each other, when they were young.

What a contented, grateful heart she must have had—the little old lady—when she and the husband of her youth sat together in the evening of life and talked over the days when they were young.

What Dignity He Has!

How stupid and silly, and vulgar and cheap, it all must have seemed to her, this talk of a dozen loves and three or four marriages and nobody knows how many "affairs" of various sorts!

What a delight it must have been to her to realize that when her husband spoke of women he meant not this blonde or that brunette, not this vamp or that flapper, but just the plain, sweet, gentle little girl he loved when he was twenty and she was not quite eighteen.

What dignity he has—the quiet old man who will not even try to forget.

No silly tears, no foolish melancholia, just a simple, cheerful way of looking forward to the hour when his old sweetheart will stand in the doorway and hold out her hands to him and he will rise and follow her.

Yes, my dear, I think we would be better if we read and thought and talked more about good people and true hearts and faithful lives, and I thank you for your letter telling us this beautiful story.

from an educational standpoint, as well as furnishing entertainment. A card of explanation accompanied each slide. "Each series carries with it a lecture, easily given by bright pupils. The opportunity afforded pupils to explain the pictures encourages them to seek to be among those invited to "lecture" before the class, and this special work gives them valuable experience in appearing before the public."

Concluding Mrs. Troup said, "A still greater work is before the Parent-Teacher's Association, every mother is needed."

In speaking of the accomplishments of the P. T. A., Mrs. W. R. Shelton, a member of its board of directors said that the "pep" and enthusiasm manifested by its most active workers revealed their "heart interest, and the kind of hearts they possess."

COTTON MARKET.

(By International News Service.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Buying by trade interests around the 21 cent level was a feature at the opening today. The market acted well under Southern selling and except for September, which opened 10 points up, was unchanged to four points lower on initial trading. At the close cotton dropped 11 to 12 points.

The "Elephant and Castle."

The Elephant and Castle was a famous landmark in South London, England, deriving its sign from the arms of the Cutlers' company. A tavern in St. Pancras parish, London, took its sign from the skeleton of an elephant, beside which was a flint-headed spear, excavated in the neighborhood. The connection between these two relics and the battle fought by the followers of Queen Boadicea against the Roman invaders was unmistakable.

DECIDES ON BEST LIFE INSURANCE

"Five years ago I was refused life insurance because of my heart symptoms. Doctors said it was caused from a pressure of gas that came from my stomach, but their medicine did not help me and I was getting worse all the time. Three years ago my druggist recommended May's Wonderful Remedy. I took a course of it and believe it is the best life insurance anyone can buy. It helped my trouble at once." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—For sale by all druggists.

Ironized Yeast Gives the Stomach Natural Digestive Power!

There's one organ in the human body that "kicks back" when it gets weak, and that's the stomach. No stomach on earth can operate without vitamins-and-iron. The same thing is true about the nerves. There is hardly anything that can happen to the nervous system that is not at once reflected to the stomach. Weak nerves weak stomach! Nature has only one answer; more vitamins ironized. But remember that Ironized Yeast is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. This is why Ironized Yeast produces almost immediate results in cases of loss of appetite, aversion to food, belching, gas on the stomach, fermentation, "lump-of-lead" feeling after eating, dyspepsia, indigestion. There is only one Ironized Yeast in the world; it contains yeast-vitamins-with-organic-iron, the very natural food-power which every strong stomach and every strong nervous system possesses. The answer is, ironized vitamins-ironized Yeast, is sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 40 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. Get Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga. Take Ironized Yeast, and you'll enjoy eating, and digest thoroughly everything you eat. That's life!

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women, whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people. It puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms, neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter."—Mrs. Wm. S. HUGHES, Greenville, Delaware.

Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Mothers—daughters, why not try it?

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Human him once more, this time bringing beings spend their fortunes in purchasing him right along at his side.

Many students of the theatre consider Marie Tempest the most finished comedienne of the age. After a long absence abroad she is appearing in New York in Arthur Richman's "The Serpent's Tooth." Certainly her comedy is most subtle artistry, and the criticism that one hears most often is "How sincere and natural she seems." This fact would be born out in a story that is going the rounds, to the effect that the first actress who was asked to play the part of the ingenue in the play, with whom Miss Tempest, as her prospective mother-in-law falls in love, was not familiar with the lines, and when Miss Tempest said the line, "You are such a sweet, innocent dear," it came as a shock to the girl that she choked in laughter while smoking a cigarette in rehearsal. Miss Tempest ordered her part filled by some one else, which would indicate that she demands the same sincerity of her players which she practices.

I always loved the story of the child's essay on the flag. She told how George Washington said "We ought to have a flag." But no one seemed to get one. Then Betsy Ross said, "We ought to have a flag. Here, father, hold the baby while I make one." There is a woman here in New York who reminds me of Betsy Ross.

For years people have been saying: "The motion pictures ought to be improved. They have possibilities of high art." One day Mrs. David Allen Campbell said, "The motion pictures ought to develop their possibilities with no more fuss." She brought together a group of women interested as she is, in art and music. They incorporated, got the kind of scenario they wanted for a first production, and are hard at work. As Chairman of the Music Department of the National Council of Women and editor of the Musical Monitor, Mrs. Campbell saw an opportunity for education along the lines of better music along with better films, and so they are going to specialize in the production of the "filmy symphony," a synoposition of screen drama and orchestration. The first one, "The Soul of the Violin" is ready for production. They have taken offices at 1425 Broadway, are capitalized at $500,000 under the name of "The Dramas Producing and Releasing Company," and have interested some of the most practical business men and women as well as leading club women and musicians of the country.

The owner of a little hardware shop on Canal Street has mastered the art of brevity. Over his door there has hung for the past few days a sign reading, "I go, I sell Ever-etink."

The bloodhounds of the law! I have read dramatic stories of federal crimes in which the U. S. Secret Service never ceased in its search until the guilty man was found, but never before did I know of a plain, ordinary ordinance breaker to be hunted by an equally plain policeman in such a way. Two years ago Adam G. Waichel, of Brooklyn, was arrested for speeding and gave the wrong address. Patrolman George Campbell remembered him and has been on the lookout for him ever since. He traced him to Port Jervis, and the other day went and arrested
